| The teacher will flash the word Genre on the screen. “Do you have any idea what genre means?” “Very good! When we say genre, it is a category of artistic work that has a specific form or characteristics. The word "genre" comes from the French word meaning "type" or "kind." Under the word genre, we have two main types of conventional literary genre: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Fiction</li> <li>● Non-Fiction</li> </ul> Let us start with the first genre. Will you please read the definition of a Fiction, _____? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Fiction - It is a creative work that is based on the imagination of the author and it is not based on real events or people. It is a made up story.</li> </ul> Examples: | The students will look at the screen. Genre is a category or a style of writing. It could be about romance, mystery, fantasy, and etc. The students listen attentively to the lesson. Fiction - is a literature created from the imagination, not presented as fact, though it may be based on a true story or situation. Types of literature in the fiction include the novel, short story and novella. |

1. Fantasy - a type of story or literature that is set in a magical world, often involving traditional myths and magical creatures and sometimes ideas or events from the real world, especially from the medieval period of history:

2. Horror - a genre of storytelling intended to scare, shock, and thrill its audience. Horror can be interpreted in many different ways, but there is often a central villain, monster, or threat that is often a reflection of the fears being experienced by society at the time.

“Can someone give an example of fictional literature?”

“For the last type of conventional literary genre, we have Non-fiction.

May I call on a volunteer to read its definition?”

Students give an example of Fiction

The students raised their hands to volunteer, and the chosen student read the definition flashed on the screen.

Non-fiction - is based on facts and the author's opinion about a subject. The purpose of non-fiction writing is to inform and sometimes to persuade. Its examples share biographies, articles from textbooks and magazines and newspapers

- Non-fiction - Nonfiction writing that is real and factual, or that actually happened. It is based on facts.

Examples:

1. Autobiography - a self-written biography. The author writes about all or a portion of their own life to share their experience, frame it in a larger cultural or historical context, and/or inform and entertain the reader.

2. Biography - A biography is simply the story of a real person's life. It could be about a person who is still alive, someone who lived centuries ago, someone who is globally famous, an unsung hero forgotten by history, or even a unique group of people.

| The teachers will split the class into two working groups (Group A and Group B). Each group will be assigned a specific topic. Collaborate with your group members to write a short, five-sentence narrative based on your assigned topic for five (5) minutes. Kindly write your answers on a sheet of yellow paper. Be ready to share or present your finished narrative to the class. Group A - Fiction For Fiction: As a group, look around the classroom and pick one object. Imagine it as a magical object; What does it do? What happens if it is used? Be creative as you like at how you'll present the output!" Group B - Non-Fiction For Non-Fiction: As a group, look around the classroom and pick one object. Once you've picked your object, demonstrate how it works step-by-step. Be creative as you like at how you'll present the output! The teacher will roam around to check the progress and collaboration of each group. | The students are grouped into two, and they start brainstorming ideas on how they will construct their answers. The students actively engaged in the activity, resulting in enhanced comprehension of the Fiction and Non-Fiction literary Genres. |
